Workshop Coordinators: Dr. Mamta Kumari, IAWS and Dr. Pramil K. Panda, XISS

Prof Sadhna Kumari Singh, Assistant Professor, Guru Nanak College, Dhanbad, attended the workshop.

I am pleased to submit the report on the two-day workshop organized by the Xavier Institute of Social Service (XISS) in collaboration with the Indian Association of Women Studies (IAWS) on the topic "Research Paper Writing." The workshop was held on 30th & 31st October 2023 and aimed to provide a platform for researchers, academicians, and students to enhance their skills in research paper writing.

The workshop was a collaborative effort between XISS and IAWS, two leading organizations in the field of education and research. The primary objective was to facilitate a better understanding of the intricacies of research paper writing, including the research process, structure, citations, and ethical considerations. The two-day workshop featured a series of interactive sessions, practical exercises, and discussions led by renowned experts in the field. Some of the key highlights included:

Inaugural Session: The workshop commenced with an inaugural session featuring distinguished speakers who highlighted the importance of research paper writing in academia and beyond.

Understanding Research: The first day was dedicated to understanding the research process, including defining research questions, literature review, and data collection techniques.

Structuring Your Paper: Participants learned about the essential elements of a research paper, such as the abstract, introduction, methodology, results, discussion, and conclusion. Emphasis was placed on creating a logical flow in the paper.

Citations and Referencing: Proper citation and referencing are crucial in research paper writing. The workshop provided insights into various citation styles, such as APA, MLA, and Chicago, and how to avoid plagiarism.

Ethical Considerations: An important aspect of research paper writing is adhering to ethical guidelines. The workshop included a session on ethical considerations, including authorship, data management, and conflicts of interest.

Peer Review and Feedback: Participants had the opportunity to engage in peer review sessions, providing feedback to their fellow attendees and receiving constructive criticism on their work.

Hands-On Writing Exercises: Throughout the workshop, participants were encouraged to apply the concepts learned through hands-on writing exercises, which allowed them to practice and refine their skills.

The workshop received overwhelmingly positive feedback from the participants. They expressed their gratitude for the comprehensive and practical knowledge they gained, which they believe will greatly benefit their research endeavors. Many participants also praised the quality of the resource persons and the interactive nature of the sessions. It provided valuable insights, guidance, and hands-on experience to the participants, equipping them with the necessary tools to enhance their research paper writing skills. The collaboration between XISS and IAWS in organizing this event showcased a commitment to promoting excellence in academic writing.

We extend our sincere appreciation to all the resource persons, participants, and organizers for their valuable contributions in making this workshop a success. The knowledge and skills gained during the workshop are expected to have a positive impact on the quality of research papers I publish in the future.
